... Dope Addicts Can Be Cured

 time, whether or not he is cured.

Lack of community follow-up . . . a program of rehabilitation for the "cured" addict . . . confinement of incurables . . . these are other reasons. In addition, there are only two hospitals, California, along with other states currently attempting to set up a program to provide hospitalization for addicts at specified hospitals. Meanwhile, leading psychiatrists recently lashed out at the "scare" tactics now being employed by anti-narcotic organizations.

Few people realize that an addict can be cured. For instance, in one of the brochures published by the Narcotics Education Foundation of America the statement is made: "We have never recorded a cure . . ."

Henry Hall, executive secretary of the organization explained the . . . as meaning they have never recorded a mental cure. He does admit, however, that there have been a few physical cures.

Dope Dispensaries
 Another method of "curing" dope addicts has been suggested but widely disparaged by doctors and psychiatrists as being impractical. It concerns the establishment of clinics where dope would be furnished to addicts with the hope of doing away with the black market trade. This theory has been found to be full of holes.

More hospitals, better post-hospital care and a follow-up program including the registration of addicts and physical checkups, perhaps are the key to more cures.

However, all authorities agree that the best treatment is preventive medicine. And the best preventive medicine is education against the use of narcotics. The percentages against a cure are not worth the risk.

Symptoms Told
 Everyone, including each resident of this city, should know the symptoms of a dope addict:

Hypodermic marks, sores, scabs, scar tissue or marked discolorations.

Attempt to hide hypodermic marks by wearing long sleeved clothing, tattooed areas. Attempt to cover injection marks by burning and scarring the skin in that area. Drowsiness and yawning. General apathy.

Discolored whites of eyes, watery eyes. Poor reaction to light by pupils of eyes. Contracted or dilated pupils.

Antisocial or abnormal ideas, lessened effect of moral sense. Restlessness, abnormal body movements. Minor facial or body spasms.

Stomach sensitive to food intake.

Extensive use or knowledge of narcotic slang. These are INDICATIONS ONLY and no sure sign of a dope addict. But remember these tell-tale signs. They are the mark of an addict . . . the world's most despicable character. Educate your children . . . prevention begins at home.
